Recognised as a design classic, the RIB® Canopy System is expertly hand-crafted in our Thameside workshop, this traditional awning is strong, practical and versatile and remains a specified option with design teams and architects. It is the recommended choice for listed and historic buildings, but is an equally sought-after solution for projects in a more contemporary setting.

History

Morco was founded in London in 1956 by Mr G H Morrison, as a specialist manufacturer of canopies, covers, sails and tarpaulins for London's busy waterways. His popularity with employees and customers saw his business grow steadily. 1967 saw Morco move to the current Riverside location on the Greenwich Peninsula. In 1978, his son George took over. Keen to utilise his design background, he began to construct specialist awnings on a much larger scale. With his fanatical attention to detail, Morco soon gained a reputation across the UK for outstanding quality awnings.

Present Day

For over 50 years, Morco have established themselves as the nation's leading design and manufacturer of custom-made awnings and canopies. It remains a family run business that prides itself on its heritage. There remains a dedicated and skillful team of craftsman and designers who all play a vital role in Morco's success story. The majority of products are still hand-built in our London workshop and a small amount are produced in Germany. Morco are keen to lead and focus heavily on pioneering new techniques or materials to improve our end products and deliver more options to our customers.

Design

We have a talented and experienced design team skilled at working with and collaborating with architects, designers and contractors to achieve the perfect awning solution for projects ranging from the simple to the most complex. Our ability in producing extensive awning designs including digital visuals, 3D-models, DWG's and technical drawings, as well as manufacturing samples and prototypes, also mean we are able to work directly for clients at the earliest stage of a project. As part of our unparalleled awning design service we are also able to offer clients the opportunity to utilise our cutting-edge RAGS branding and patterning system which has revolutionised the traditional parameters of fabric design.

Craftsmanship

Our manufacturing team combines a tradition of experienced craftsmen with uniquely skilled technicians. Proud of our reputation as market leaders, their dedication to projects from the simplest to the most challenging is unmatched. Every awning and canopy is individually handcrafted with the utmost care given to achieve perfection in all. Our clients are able to visit our workshop and as see all aspects of their awning created, from the fabrication and powdercoating of the metalwork to the crafting of the timber and creation of the fabric covers.

Application

Famously used on some of Europe's best known stores and buildings, the RIB canopy has always been a popular choice. Originating in France, it's enduring popularity has predominantly been due to the broad pallet of shapes and styles made possible with it's clever construction. Able to adapt to most types of shopfronts and fascias, the bespoke curvature of the frame can work with minimalist or grand façades to ensure nothing of the buildings architecture is lost, only enhanced. Even after a century of use we are still creating RIB canopies in a variety of classic, original and striking designs.

Construction

Although we pride ourselves on the coupling of traditional craftsmanship with cutting-edge technology, nowhere is this as evident as with the RIB canopy. Although the traditional method of creating a frame and fitting it with a tensioned fabric covering remains the same, we have developed a unique extruded framework with increased strength making it possible to construct greater dimensions, tensioning and design configurations. Although our Rib is the strongest in the country it also has smallest section at 25mm square. We are the only company to weld joins instead of riveting.

Finishing

With the wide range of fabric colours and metal finishes available the RIB® System offers endless possibilities to suit any setting. Metalwork finishes can be anodised or powdercoated to any RAL colour and all fabric colours are solution dyed. The fabric protected to maintain resistance throughout the life span of the awning and withstand the most demanding weather conditions. Also rather than the unattractive PVC tack-on trim used by all other companies, we are the only company to offer perfectly coordinated trim made from the same fabric as the cover.

Customisation

All elements of the RIB® Canopy System are customisable, from its shape and size to the colours and branding. Whether from our classic range of RIB styles or something more modern and bespoke, every canopy is uniquely made with our designers able to help create the canopy perfect for you.
